Appomattox Primary School Annex: Activity-Centered Learning For Kindergarten

The "Animal of the Week" sponsored by the Appomattox FFA Chapter will be an asset to the kindergartens' science center. Pre-school children will be experimenting with magnets, balances, pulleys, and actually taking responsibility in feeding and caring for animals as ducks, (pictured above) rabbits, fish and chickens.

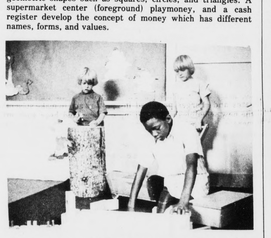
Mathematics in kindergarten is taught through discovery. Mrs. Henrietta Johnson is teaching the recognition of geometric shapes such as squares, circles, and triangles. A supermarket center (foreground) playmoney, and a cash register develop the concept of money which has different names, forms, and values.

"Learning through Imaginative Play" allows the child to identify with adult roles. Good table manners can be established as well as the value of eating a balanced meal. Dramatic play allows the child to experience success, gain self-confidence, and to develop independence and personal responsibility.



Large wooden blocks and a space to pound nails into a log provide for development in muscular coordination and experiences in organizing, arranging, measuring, counting, and problem solving. In the block corner, you will find children creating fire engines, houses, and roads.

Miss Linda Merryman, teacher, is planning way to develop eye-hand coordination. Children are using pounding blocks, lace shoes, puzzles, nuts and bolts, painting, and clay for improving eye muscle training. The tricycle rider in the background is using eye and wrist coordination to maneuver around the obstacle course.

"My Special Horse"

(The following poem was written by Karen Hunter, the granddaughter of Mrs. Emma Hunter and passed on to us. Thought our readers would enjoy reading this poem written by a little girl.)

My special horse is a special one.

Boy can he ever run.
And he looks so beautiful as he shines in the sun. If I'm holding a carrot he'll surely come.
His coat is a silky black. I can even ride him bareback. He rides as if he's gentle and free

I love him and he loves me. My special friend.

by Karen Hunter
